Personal Information

Identification, Language Skills, Citizenship(s), Address, Telephone, Email

Education

Degrees and Diplomas. For each entry, including the date of enrolment and the date of conferment, institution, title, and faculty advisor(s).

Employment

Post PhD Academic Work Experience. Enter your current and past academic work experience. For each entry, provide job title (e.g., Postdoctoral fellow), start and end dates, name of institution/company, advisor(s) and department/work unit. For each entry, describe the nature of your research activities (in a few short sentences).

Non-Academic Work Experience. Enter your current and past non-academic work experience. For each entry, provide a job title, start and end dates, name of company and location, and briefly describe your role.

Leaves of Absence and Impact on Research. Provide information on any leave of absence that affected research activities and/or dissemination of research results (e.g., parental leave, bereavement, illness, extraordinary administrative duties). For each, provide the start and end dates, and clearly explain the impact of the delay, especially if a formal leave was not taken.

Recognitions

Prizes, awards and honours but not fellowships or operating grants (see Research Funding History, below). Indicate awards that you elected to decline.

Funding History

Include support held as an applicant or a co-applicant (indicate role). Include support held but now completed; support currently held, and support applied for (under review). For each entry, identify the funding program and agency, give title of proposal (if possible), dates and duration of funding, amounts (in Canadian dollars ($CDN)), and other relevant details.

Fellowships and Studentships. If you were not primary (or sole) applicant, indicate your role.

Other funding (research grants, travel awards, funds to organize workshops and events).

Research contributions

Refereed journal contributions:

Refereed Journal Publications. A list of the applicant's refereed published or in press journal publications. Do not include submitted papers. Where a publication is multi-authored, the applicant's contribution to the work should be described.

Submitted Manuscripts to a Refereed Journal. A list of the applicant's manuscripts that are either submitted or in revision (not yet accepted) at a refereed (peer reviewed) journal. Do not include manuscripts in preparation. Where a manuscript is multi-authored, the applicant's contribution to the work should be described.

Refereed conference proceedings (note: relevance of this section will depend on discipline; much more common in computer science/engineering):

Refereed Conference Proceedings. A list of the applicant's published or in-press contributions for a conference that uses rigorous peer review and publishes proceedings. Do not include submitted papers. Where a publication is multi-authored, the applicant's contribution to the work should be described.
